
Why would you change your job?

Posted by Mary Hirst - 2006/05/24 11:35

I work for a London based recruitment company and I'm doing some research about what motivates people to change job? I'd like to hear your views on any of the following topics - timing - how often do you change your role, approach - do you find jobs online or use more traditional resources? motivation - are you looking for new challenges, better work environment or something else when you make that move.

=====

Re:Why would you change your job?

Posted by Chetan - 2006/08/04 11:21

Hi Mary,

You have selected very interesting topic for research.

I changed the job basically for new work environment. We can learn more thing by changing the jobs. Secondly money matters. If somebody is offering more money for the same work why should not work there.

Let me know your views just to know what other people things about this.

Thanks,
Chetan

=====

Re:Why would you change your job?

Posted by KaushiK - 2006/12/29 20:34

Hello,

Let me tell you from my point of view the key reasons for changing a Job in India are:

1. Most of MR Professionals are working for MR vendors not MR firms, so once the contract with the MR firm is over they have to switch over
 2. As there are too many companies in India entering into providing ITES services to US/UK MR firms, they are offering very handsome salary and rapid growth
- =====

I WANT HELP PLEASE

Posted by vahid - 2008/05/05 09:19

HI

ME AND 2 PERSON OF MY FRIENDS WANT TO CREAT A COMPANY ABOAT MARKET RESEARCH IN IRAN BUT WE CANT PRESENT OURSELF TO BIG COMPANY THAT WANT INTER TO IRAN.WE CANT MEMBER TO ESOMAR GROUP.PLZ HELP US.

=====