The Anti-Bullying Alliance releases the results of its annual poll of children and young people today to mark the start of Anti-Bullying Week 2007.

The 2007 Anti-Bullying Week campaign focuses on "bullying in the community"™ with the message "safer together, safer wherever"™, to remind us that we all have a role to play in keeping children and young people safe wherever they are.

This year's™ poll shows that 35% of a sample of 7-18 year olds say that they have been bullied outside of school. The survey carried out by BMRB for the ABA with 1,078 7-18 year olds in England, found that the most likely places for children and young people to experience bullying outside school were on the street (16%), on the way to and from school, and in the park (12%).
