Sugging, as explained by DJS Research Ltd.

No. If you are contacted by a Market Research agency they will not try to sell you anything - often they will infact give you an incentive to reply to or take part in their questionnaire. Sugging, or selling under the guise of market research is a common occurence today, but these people are not the true market researchers!Â To see further information please visit DJS Research by clicking here: Market Research UK
