MedQuery, one of the nation's top medical fieldwork firms, announced today the launch of Fast Track - Physicians, a new service designed to support medical and pharmaceutical market research. Fast Track has been built to recruit any type of physician to a qualitative research study in one week, guaranteed.

Built on MedQuery's QuickQuest platform, a proprietary project management system, physicians being recruited for the research studies can quickly self-screen and schedule themselves via email and text. Researchers and their clients stay on top of the recruiting via a real-time data available through the QuickQuest portal.

According to Michael Schulte, VP of Client Services & Operations at MedQuery, "We developed Fast Track for our clients when "fast" isn't fast enough. We're so confident in Fast Track and our project management team, that if we don't the one-week promise, our clients don't pay!"
