

Schlesinger Associates Launches Leading Edge Client Portal For Its Qualitative Clients

Contributed by Schlesinger Associates
Monday, 09 March 2015

Continuing its major investment in technology for data collection, Schlesinger Associates has completed the development of its client portal software. The unique custom software solution provides clients with on-demand access to their accounts and qualitative data collection projects with simple but comprehensive functionality. Schlesinger's Client Space provides a robust technical infrastructure capable of providing each client with secure dashboard access to various aspects of their account including, active study / recruitment progress, study history and historic data. The portal also allows the client to provide controlled access to study stakeholders and to interact directly.

Commenting on the news, Mike Sullivan, President, said, "This latest and most significant software investment represents a continued commitment to ensuring our clients' data collection experience is as effective and as high quality as the data itself. In addition to our usual client interactions, we believe that transparency in our recruitment and project management services together with enhanced client control and convenience is paramount to the continued value we offer our clients to drive their research success."