Looking for A Job In Market Research?

Contributed by MRP
Thursday, 02 November 2006
Last Updated Thursday, 02 November 2006

Looking for A Job In Market Research?

We are now very pleased to let you know that our full market research job system is up and running. If you are a job seeker looking for a position inÂ market researchÂ why not sign up with our Market Research Job site. You will be able to post your CV, search for the perfect job and even receive job mail - all for FREE. Also, don't worry about confidentiality; we have a number of privacy options that can protect your identity if you do not want your details to be viewed by employers.Â Â

Please visit: Market Research JobsÂ or click on "Jobs" in the top menu to start using the site. If you want to go straight to the registration page, please visit here: registration

The site is new at the moment (October/November 2006) but we have a number of employers and recruitersÂ posting their jobs on a daily basis. We do hope you find the site useful. Finally, please do let your friends and colleagues know about the site: Â http://jobs.marketresearchworld.net

All the best in your job search.